

Les Vadasz

Les was part of the founding team of Intel Corp. in 1968. At Intel, he held various executive roles. He retired in 2003. Prior to that he worked for Fairchild Semiconductor, and Transitron.

His first responsibility at Intel was the development of semiconductor memory and microprocessor components. Prior to his retirement, he was Executive Vice President of Intel, and President of Intel Capital. He also served on Intel's Board of Directors between 1988 and 2004.

He has an Engineering degree from McGill University (1961), completed Harvard Business School AMP (1990), and Honorary Doctor degrees from McGill University and Sonoma State University. He is Life Fellow of the IEEE.

Currently, he and his wife Judy split their time between Silicon Valley and Sonoma Valley.